PHIL'S NEWSLETTER - OCTOBER 2014

It's been a while! After my last newsletter in June I had a few visitors, Steve and Kay and then Duncan and Jan from Hesketh Bank. Duncan has supported most ZMS projects in different ways ever since I came to Zambia. One of these is Peoples Bible College in Lukwipa and a young man called Elvis from grade nine now into college doing a course in Fisheries.

Then for three weeks at the end of July into August my brother Jonathan, Gill and their four girls, Megan, Claire, Ella and Beth visited. We did the usual trip to Livingstone, Petauke and the South Luangwa National Park. We had a wonderful time together and saw an amazing lion kill. Check it out on www.youtube.com/watch?v=JjUTltbKxXs lion v puku. The Puku came off worse!!

STRANGLER FIG FARM

Sorry the name has changed. I mislead you last time! The trees are not Baobab but Strangler Fig Trees!

7 am Devotion at CC Farm

Anyway its still a very interesting tree, google it to find out more. The LAC warehouse and our apartments inside is now finished and we moved in on Sept 15th. Let me introduce you to Lucky Mwanza, his wife Natalie and their son Marcus.

Lucky, one of the lads from the MacDonald's, has joined me as Sales and Construction Manager for the Haygrove tunnels. He is continuing his evening accountancy studies and the plan is for him GW to be able to run the business in a few years time.

Whilst in Livingstone with Jonathan, Gill and the girls I visited one of our regular Haygrove customers.

CC FARM

Please continue to remember Jackson and Samuel as they manage the farm ministry at Covenant College. I'm just back from a 12-day visit with them but this time I loaded my belongings from the chalet that has been my home for most of the past ten years. Strange feeling but God has given me a new home and has blessed me greatly this year. I hope to visit them every three months but now only on an advisory basis. They continue to meet at 7 hrs every morning for devotion with the workers for the day. Pray with them as they share the Gospel and the teaching of Farming God's Way. The rains are again close by and the new planting season will soon be with them. As each season ends and a new one begins God's promise of seed time and harvest remains ever true. What He requires is faithfulness with the resources he has given.

PRAYER POINTS

- Pray that our business will prosper and we will be faithful with it
- Pray for Lucky and his young family.
- Pray for Jackson and Samuel and their families at Covenant College

Thank you for your support.
With Christian Love
